

New York Stock Market

New York, April 27.—The stock market put in an active forenoon in efforts to appraise the significance of the increase of the United States steel dividend yesterday.

There was no consensus of opinion on the inference to be drawn from the United States steel quarterly report and the increase in the dividend rate. Operators who bought the stock argued that the confidence in the business outlook implied that the increase was to be taken as a signal of judgment that was bound to impress the financial world at large.

The bear party made much of the current reports of subsiding demand for steel products, the talk of accumulating stocks and falling demand for iron. The bear party had asserted its determination beforehand to sell the stock in the event of the dividend being raised, on the ground that the action would exhaust the available funds.

Quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which interest must be added. The cotton market was nervous and unsettled to-day with prices generally lower under scattering orders.
